

I was raped . . .

on my college campus.

Drugged and raped. Because of the drugs, I didn't remember a lot of the details and that's scary. And frustrating. But I knew I had to face it head-on. And I knew words would be my lifeline. I wrote an article for my college paper. I started talking about it. I'm still talking about it. My name is Robin. I am a rape survivor. It hasn't destroyed me. And it doesn't control me.
